Section L—CONSERVATION

At the winter session of the Council of The Ohio Academy of Science, a new section was established. The new group will be designated as Section L—Conservation. F. H. Glenn, Zoology and Entomology Department, Ohio State University, was named organizing chairman and will serve until the section has its first program and election of officers at the April meetings. If you know of persons not now members of the Academy who would be interested in joining the section, Mr. Glenn will appreciate having their names.
